Connected Mobility

On Wednesday, October 10 from 3 to 4 p.m. in the Johnson Center, Room D, Mark D. Rasch and Brian Demuth will discuss Connected Mobility. The talk will focus on the vulnerabilities and risks associated with having modes of transportation, such as vehicles and airplanes, connected to the Internet. They will discuss the challenges facing the transportation sector as it tries to balance the concerns behind connectivity and functionality with the increasing risks.

Rasch is a lawyer and computer security/privacy expert from Bethesda, Md. He helps develop strategy and messaging for the Information Security Team. He has more than 25 years of experience in the cyber security field.

Demuth is the CEO of GRIMM, a cybersecurity engineering and consulting firm. Before he joined GRIMM, Demuth led an advanced cyber services organization providing solutions to the federal government and commercial companies. He has more than 20 years of experience and has developed expertise in a number of subjects, including cyber policy development and implementation.
